After receiving the 2009 EGU Agassiz medal of the Cryosphere division, our colleague, and CP co-founder, Dr. Eric Wolff, has been elected Fellow of the Royal Society. Previous Fellows include among others Isaac Newton, Michael Faraday, Charles Darwin, Ernest Rutherford and Nick Shackleton. This is a prestigious award that honors our colleague.

Climate of the Past editors are sincerely proud to have such a distinguished colleague among them, and strongly and warmly congratulate one of the CP founders for such an achievement.
