

Climate of the Past indexed in the Science Citation Index

Less than two years after its launch, the EGU journal Climate of the Past is being indexed in the Science Citation Index Expanded (SciSearch, Web of Science), the Current Contents Physical, Chemical and Earth Sciences, and in the Journal Citation Reports/Science Edition according to recent news from Thompson ISI. As for the other journals, with this indexing, also all back volumes and issues will be linked via these database products. Therefore the index also refers retroactively to all issues published since the launch. The European Geosciences Union (EGU) and the co-editors-in-chief of Climate of the Past thank all authors, reviewers, guest editors and members of the editorial board for their respective contributions to this successful and stimulating development.
